The victim sustained internal injuries, the extent of which cannot be definitely ascertained until twenty four or forty-eight hours have clapsed. The accident occurred about 2:30 o'clock. Crites, who is a gardener employed at the Eccles home, 2580 Jeffer son avenue, had been instructed to wash the car. He is not an experienced driver, but decided to test his ability as a chauffeur. He had driven the car less than two blocks when he became confused in going down a hill, and the machine swerved toward the sidewalk.

There is no protecting wall in front of the Kemmeyer home, a small brick cottage, and before he could apply the brakes, the auto dropped down a fourfoot embankment and plunged across the narrow porch on which the child was playing. The car did not stop until the spring fender and front wheels had carried away a large section of the wall, wrecking several pieces of furniture in the front room of the house. The automobile was not badly damaged, the fenders being broken and one tire punctured.

Senator Heyburn Objects to Vituperative Attacks Upon the Republican Party in the Debate.

7 ASHINGTON, Aug. 24.-The proposal to summon Colonel Roosevelt to testify before the special senate committee on campaign contributions was not considered by the committee today. The committee, however, it was given out, will look particularly into the Peurose-Archbold-Roosevelt controversy over Standard Oil contributions to the 1904 Republican war chest.

Plans to transfer the hearings to New York were abandoned and dates of future hearings were left for decision until the senate acts on the Penrose resolution directing investigation of Standard Oil contributions and the Reed amendment directing investigation of 1912 contributions. The sepate was expected to act today on these measures. A majority is said to be in favor of resuming the inquiry in Sep-

Resolution Enlarged.

When Senator Penrose's resolution was brought up in the senate, Senator Poin-dexter proposed that the subjects to be investigated be extended to include "al correspondence between John D. Archbold and members of the senate and of the house of representatives" since 1990 This amendment was adopted. Senator Penrose proposed that the name of George W. Perkins be included with that of Archbold and that the term 'ex-presidents of the United States" be cluded with the members of congress "It is suggested, however," he reex-president, and as we are not interested in dead ex-presidents. I wish to substitute Mr. Theodore Roosevelt-or Colonel. I believe his title is."

This amendment was incorporated. Senator Heyburn objected to the viuperative attacks on the Republicaparty and its members in the senate de bate day before yesterday, and declared that the senate was not concerned in the matter of what anyone contributed for the "legitimate expenses of a campaign." He likewise objected to the attacks on Colonel Roosevelt.

"I cannot see," he said, "how it can he said that because he is now again a candidate for the presidency it is prope to begin before this tribunal an effort to assassinate his character."

Senator Heyburn said that the prope time for such an attack was at the time when Roosevelt was president, when he was subject to charges of malfeasance and disreputable conduct in office. Mr. Heyburn's speech began to assume the proportions of a filibuster against the resolution, when Senator Sutherland sug gested that as the senate was merely awaiting a single appropriation bill for final adjournment, recess be taken until 4 o'clock. Senator Heyburn objected and unless he concluded he would yield the floor to nothing but the conference report on the general deficiency bill.

Thousands of wires underneath the floors had fused and the firemen were forced to tear up part of the floors to get at the flames, the work being exceedingly dangerous.

Getting the employees out without panic was an achievement for which the officials congratulate themselves. On Saturday night the forces are considerably smaller than usual, owing to the small volume of business.

As soon as the fire was discovered all the women were ordered to leave the building immediately. They were thoroughly familiar with the fire drill, and marched into the street without the slightest disorder.

Three Leading Presidential Candidates Making Earnest Plea for Votes of the Wives and Mothers.

SUFFRAGE GRANTED IN SIX BIG STATES

Ohio to Vote on the Question September 3, and Oregon, Kansas, Michigan and Wisconsin at Fall Election.

By International News Service. 7 ASHINGTON, Aug. 24 .-- Woman, lovely woman, is fast gaining equal political recognition with "mere men." The coming campaign will witness the unprecedented spectacle of the three leading presidential candidates making an earnest plea for female votes. While the Progressive party is the only one that has incorporated a plank for women suffrage in its platform, both the Republican and Democratic leaders are establishing national organizations with women at their head for the pur-DNDON POSTO-FIGE with women at their head for the purpose of attracting the female vote in the six states that have already granted equal suffrage, and for the moral effect it may have on the male voters in other states, where this question has become a burning issue.

The voters will not only be treated to the unusual spectacle of an ex-president trying for a third term at the head of a new party but will have the pleasure of seeing and hearing female spellbinders who will stump the country in support of their favorite-candidates. Where Women Vote.

Colorado, Idaho, Utah, Washington and Wyoming are the six states in the union that have already given them. the right to vote, and it is estimated that there are 800,000 female voters in these states. So formidable a number has to be reckened with even by a presidential candidate. When Colonel Roosevelt swept the state of California try and with the continent and for a in the presidential primaries last time connection with America was say. spring, the female vote, it was claimed. was responsible for his enormous majority. The states above mentioned have 65 votes out of a total of 531 in the electoral college.

Active work has already been begun by the various presidential candidates to capture these votes. The Women's National Wilson and Marshall organization with Mrs. J. Borden Harriman at the head, has opened its headquarters in the Fifth Avenue building, N. Y., and the work of forming state organizations is being rapidly conducted. Governor Wilson's three daughters, and Mrs. Thomas Gore, wife of the senator from Oklahoma, are a few of the other prominent women connected with the Democratic campaign.

Women's Republican League.

The Republican organization, not to be outdone, has announced the appointment of Miss Helen Boswell of New Taft, a woman's auxiliary organization to work for the Republican organization in the equal suffrage states. Miss Boswell is president of the National Women's Republican organization. The Republicans, however, have received a alight setback, owing to the refusal of Miss Mabel Boardman to act as head of the advisory committee. Miss Boardman, who is a close friend of the Taft family, has decided not to enter into the campaign owing to her position as head of the American Red Cross society.

The "Bull Moose" party is by no means depending alone on its woman suffrage plank to attract female votes. They have opened a national women's organization in the Metropolitan tower with Miss Alice Carpenter, a prominent advocate of equal rights, in charge, and the work of organizing state clubs is rapidly under way. Miss Carpenter has submitted a plan of organization prepared by the women members of the national committee of the Progressive party, which has been approved. According to this plan each state and each county committee is to have at least one woman member. They are to be attached to the party headquarters and work with the committee shoulder to shoulder. Their special work will be enlisting women in the campaign, and particularly getting suffrage workers out to spellbind for the
